INDICTED FOR CITY GRAFT

Grand Jury Renews Cases Against Ex-Alderman Battis, Councilman McCullough and the Latter's Counsel, James T. Cassidy

New indictments were returned by the Suffolk Grand Jury for March to-day against former Alderman George H. Battis, Councilman Leo F. McCullough and Attorney James T. Cassidy, McCullough's counsel.

The fact that District Attorney Arthur D. Hill was taking up these cases again was held exclusively in yesterday's latest edition of the BOSTON AMERICAN. Today's Grand Jury proceedings confirmed the AMERICAN's statement.

Battis is a Ward 1 Republican from East Boston. He is identified for the first time in two months from the city of Boston of a total of $233, in connection with direct and indirect for the Fourth of July given run by the city in the financial administration of 1906 and 1907. He was chairman of the Fourth of July Committee of the city government. He was indicted a year ago when the District Attorney John B. Morris was in office. He pleaded not guilty in the Superior Court to the first indictment and gave bail in $10,000. The case never came to trial.

Again Pleads Not Guilty.
The case was taken up previously for Mr. Hill, the present district attorney. After the March Grand Jury reported a list of seventy indictments in the case of Battis to-day, and after the defendants had pleaded, the three indictments of Battis, McCullough and Cassidy were read.

Battis had been indicted to appear in court. He came in with John F. Hill, his counsel, and pleaded not guilty. He was then taken to the city hall in $10,000. He was then taken to the city hall in $10,000. He was then taken to the city hall in $10,000.

Charge of Conspiracy.
Each pleaded not guilty at that time and were bailed in $10,000 each. The cases did not come to trial. They were taken up again by the Grand Jury today. The indictment against Battis was for conspiracy to defraud the city out of $200,000 in the last year.

DOCTOR'S ARREST REVEALS TRAGEDY

Ethel Rogers, 19-year-old Maine girl whose mysterious death, according to the statement of doctor held in the case, was sequel to attack by unknown men on lonely road.

Ethel Rogers Was a Pure and Innocent Girl, Who Had Been Brutally Attacked by Two Men—Dr. Wing Tried to Save Her.

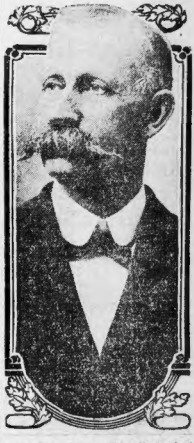

The mysterious circumstances surrounding the tragic death of Miss Ethel Rogers, a beautiful nineteen-year-old girl of Milwauke, Me., in the Salem Hospital, were cleared to-day by a statement of the remarkable facts to the AMERICAN by Dr. Edward P. Wing of Lynn.

Dr. Wing is under arrest in connection with the case. He had no trouble in getting $10,000 bail. Business men have come forward in his home town, where he is highly respected, and have given assurances that if his bail is fixed at ten times $10,000 the security will be forthcoming.

Dr. Wing declares that Miss Rogers was a pure and innocent girl who suffered from the attack of two men on a lonely road near her home, and that she was brought to his office by her father. What he did, said Dr. Wing, was in an effort to save the girl's life, not to end it.

James B. Rogers, the father of the girl, left last night with the girl's body for her home in Maine. Mr. Rogers is

DR. WING'S STATEMENT.
"I should like to say in the beginning," said Dr. Wing, "that I have committed no crime—medically none. I tried to save the life of an innocent and brutally wronged girl. I did not want any more money on my hands. I have done my duty."

Danish Women Win Franchise; Vote March 12.

COPENHAGEN.—While the London Suffragettes are struggling for the franchise, their sisters who are subjects of the English Queen Alexandra's brother, King Frederick, have received the opportunity of exercising the franchise for the first time on March 12, when all women will have a vote in the election of the Town Council.

Danish women have been agitating for thirty years to obtain the franchise, nevertheless, now that they have it, they have nominated few women candidates for the Council.

Various political parties proffered nominations to prominent women, but the majority refused to run.

FEVER PATIENT DENIED ICE AT LYNN HOSPITAL

It is believed that Mrs. Esther W. Dinkins, of No. 10, of Lynde street, may be called as a witness at the Board of Health hearing held Monday to probe into charges against the nurses and other attendants at the Lynn Hospital. Mrs. Dinkins, who was the fever patient, stated that she was compelled to walk from an ambulance to the street for water, although she was in a very weak state. The different nurses, it is believed, already taken in the hospital, she said.

Ice Was "Too High."
I went to the Cottage Hospital Sunday afternoon, June 7, 1906, at 4 o'clock. I was compelled to walk from the ambulance to the street for water, although I was in a very weak state. The different nurses, it is believed, already taken in the hospital, she said.

Girl Crying for Water.
Everything that Mrs. Macfarlane has stated about the institution is correct. I am confident that what she said is correct. The nurse, who she called as a witness, was the nurse who was in charge of the fever ward. She was the nurse who was in charge of the fever ward. Between 6 o'clock last night and 6 o'clock today, the voting in the Freeman Stage contest came to an end, there was an eleven-hour rush of nearly ONE MILLION votes. Candidates who have been waiting for weeks were swept to the front by the tidal wave of ballots.

Vote came into the AMERICA of 100,000. They were delivered in bales, sold cases and baskets.

An extra force of accountants had to be put on the job of tallying up in addition to the force which had been on duty since the opening of the contest.

Women's Hosiery

A fortunate purchase in Women's Hosiery, consisting of "silk lisle" in black and in tans, plain lisle in black and tan, black brilliant lisle with white heel and toe, and three numbers of out sizes in "silk lisle," plain lisle and cotton, with split foot. We have been carrying these qualities in our regular stock, and they have been among our best selling numbers at 50 and 75c per pair. The importer gave up his business in Women's Hosiery Jan. 1st. This lot of 7000 pairs he was obliged to take in completion of a contract. He sold them to us below the cost of importation, so that we can offer these stockings that you have been paying 50 and 75c for, at 35c per pair, 3 pairs 1.00. A great opportunity to supply your spring and summer wants.

TRIMMING CONTEST

FIRST STATEMENT TO PUBLISHED BY NEW TREASURY CHIEF

By ROERSTIANER.

CHICAGO, March 6.—"Theodore Roosevelt," the Treasury chief, has today made the first statement to be published by the new Treasury chief, Mr. McVagh.

This was Secretary of the Treasury McVagh's answer to the question whether it would be possible, in view of the growing deficit, to curtail the expenses of the government. The Secretary had replied, after a little reflection, in the negative, saying that in a country like the United States, which was subject to a phenomenal growth, it was impossible to reduce expenditures, even in a critical period for the Treasury Department. Then, in the second thought, he expressed his opinion that the President had done in the way of annulling the Government function.

Franklin McVagh.

OUTLINES PLANS FOR CONDUCT OF THE TREASURY.

"Merchants Have Learned the Great Lesson of the Panic and the Peril in the Invisible Supply of Commodities."

"We Need the Leaven of Tenderness and the Spiritual Qualities brought by Slav and Italian Immigrants."

"The Government Must Have Money and a Plan Must Be devised for Getting It, but That is a Cabinet Question."

"Business Bound to Increase as Soon as Manufacturers Know About the Tariff."

"Secretary Must Fight for Money with His Back to the Wall; Says Chicago Banker, 'and He is Not a Fighter.'"

Mr. McVagh, who is well known to the public as a man of letters, has today made a statement to the press, in which he outlined his plans for the conduct of the Treasury. He said that he had been thinking much about the Treasury since he had been appointed to the position. He said that he had been thinking much about the Treasury since he had been appointed to the position. On account of this weakness she was unable to throw off a bronchial trouble which set in. Her condition is not such that she can be expected to recover to exercise care for a few days.

This present combination of bronchial trouble and influenza, which is a common phenomenon, has been the cause of a prolonged poisoning forced Mrs. Stokes to discontinue an audience which gathered to hear her lecture at the Emerson Hall, Harvard University, yesterday.

The philosophy lecture hall, the biggest room in the building, was filled when Mrs. Stokes appeared, and she was well received. Mrs. Stokes' remark, saying that she was ill, was met with a sympathetic murmur.

Mr. Suffrage, treating it solely from a standpoint of economies, urged that women should be forced to work under unhealthy conditions, and that the State should not alter these conditions alleviated. He did not treat of the political aspect of the suffrage.

A notable achievement in railroad travel was accomplished by the Watson family in getting eighteen children to St. Louis in time for the opening of the big Auto Show. The family, which includes a mother and eleven children, has been traveling by rail since the snowstorm of recent years. Traffic in St. Louis was blocked, but by special attention to the Watsons, the train was quickly pushed through their shipment on the road. The result is getting a lot of valuable publicity for the railroad and in relief circles as a big traffic stunt.

Assistant Manager Thomas J. Kay, who is in charge of the Eastern & Illinois Railroad, left Wednesday evening "home" with a big touring party for the winter season. Kay is a married man and his wife and two children accompanied him as far as the "Wild City."

For two or three days the market has behaved as if a flood of new stock had poured in. The price of the stock, toward the end of February, had started the decline but had carefully retraced the decline to its starting point. To some extent this must be what happened in the market when the buying of stocks on scale down during the decline in the price of the stock, placing of stocks to sell on a scale up.

Bond houses are not so flooded with new issues, as they are in the case of stocks. They may be due to a waiting attitude on the part of investors, or they may be due to the fact that the market has put out a large issue. It was some time there has been talk of two or three million dollar bond issues, but only $2,000,000 of bonds.

They learned the lesson pretty thoroughly several years ago, when copper was among the clouds not to carry more stock than they can use immediately prospects of disposing of. Although there is plenty of money to be had and every one admits that the metal is cheap, most consumers prefer to pay higher prices, if necessary, for the metal when they actually need it.

NAVY FIGHTER TO BATTLE AS PROFESSIONAL

A new middleweight who will be watching is Walter Affreri, the champion of Uncle Sam's navy, whose enlistment has ended, and he has decided to try his hand in the professional ranks.

He is located in Boston at present and under the management of Alvin Karpis, the famous, well-known North End sporting man, who will endeavor to match him up with the best in the business.

Affreri has spent the last six years in the navy and in that time has fought over 120 fights, winning 80 and losing the rest in the last five years.

He has defeated the champion of the world, defeated Dickinson at Auckland, Australia and was presented with an elegant medal for his performance.

Phil Schwelger is the only one in the city who has a chance to give him any trouble. The two have met on several occasions and Affreri has had the better of the encounter, though he lost the last time.

His most important battles have been Knocked out Majack in two rounds aboard the Illinois, won from Burke on the route to the Indiana, Phil Schenberg on the Oregon, and the recent, four rounds; knocked out Griffiths, champion of the English navy on the Missouri, with Iron Jaw Egan on the Missouri.

He is looking for a match with McKinnon and should be able to give the boxer a great combat.

THE HALL-ROOM BOYS

Constance, Almost

Make Inauguration
Day April 30

If Ben Franklin Fixed March 4,
His Wisdom Slipped for Once

William Howard Taft is the first President since Andrew Jackson who took the oath of office in the Senate Chamber. All of his predecessors for the past seventy odd years have been sworn in at the East front of the Capitol.

Let it not be inferred from this that the successors of Jackson down to Taft have been favored with fair weather. Quite the contrary is true. The fourths of March which have dawned in Presidential years with bright skies and balmy atmosphere have been notable exceptions. There is nothing more uncertain in Washington than early March weather unless it be the prophecies of the Weather Bureau concerning the said weather. Occasionally the weather on March 4 at the capital is all right, but the Weather Bureau's prophecies about it have been unflinching wrong.

It is a source of wonder why March 4 was ever selected as a day for inaugurating the President. It was not so at the beginning. Washington was made first President of the United States on April 30 in New York City.

Subsequently the date for the inauguration was changed to March 4 at the suggestion, it is said, of Benjamin Franklin. Franklin, we are told, had figured it out that for a century ahead March 4 would fall on Sunday less times than any other date in the year.

If Franklin really was responsible for the change, it was the most foolish thing that wise man ever did. There has been agitation for a change back to the original date at intervals ever since. Thursday's experience in Washington will furnish a new argument for the change. The change ought to be made. If we are to have pomp and ceremony at the inaugurations of our Presidents, it is stupid to fix on a date which four times out of five will prove so inauspicious atmospherically as to bring all ceremonial plans to disaster.

At the second inaugural of Grant and the second inaugural of Cleveland the weather was so severe that hundreds of those who braved the elements to take part in the ceremony died as a consequence.

April is a delightful month in Washington, and April 30 is the date set by historic precedent for the inauguration of the President. That date should be re-established for all future inaugurations.

The Treason of the Steel Trust

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

In the law lexicon there is an accurate catalogue of common crimes and familiar felonies. They are all named and described, so that exaction is armed with its epithet; and the word-blow goes straight to its mark.

But there are crimes so great that they are nameless. There are social outrages so rare and monstrous, so novel and unimagined, that words thrown out at them designate but do not describe them.

Such is the crime of the United States Steel Company if—as is now generally believed—the Wall Street connection, with the resulting shift to the commercial order of the country, was deliberately planned by the steel magnates for the purpose of frightening Congress from its duty in the tariff business.

What should one say of a gang of ruffians who would raise the cry of "Fire!" in a packed theatre—for the sake of looting the crushed and killed in a panic-stricken crowd?

But the crime of these commercial alarmists is greater than that—as the misery that a nation may suffer is greater than any misery that can be crowded into a house. And it is greater because the makers of commercial stampedes are able to work their ruin only because they stand in places of trust. THEIRS IS A CRIME OF TREASON AND BETRAYAL.

The steel men are quoted as saying that they would "teach Congress a lesson!"

The American calls upon Congress to learn the lesson and to better the instruction. The representatives of the people have now their golden hour to TEACH A LESSON—A STINGING, HUMBLING LESSON—TO THESE INSOLENT OUTLAWS.

It is a crucial moment. If Congress—which is set to guide and guard the ship—could be seized by a wreckers' cry of panic, what could keep us from the rocks? The people might then be alarmed indeed—and with good cause!

The American demands now with renewed emphasis—as it has steadily demanded—that the tariff shall be revised—and revised, "not by the friends of the tariff, but by the friends of the people." We stand for protection to the people; and they demand protection against such iniquities as these.

We have said that commercial combinations in restraint of trade and for the promotion of privilege are not industrial companies, but robber bands. We say now that a commercial combination that uses its financial power to spread distress in the land and to intimidate the Congress of the United States is GUILTY OF HIGH-HANDED TREASON.

Gentlemen of the Sixty-first Congress—in the name of the democratic principle—do one single thing to the tariff if nothing else: SCALE DOWN THE STEEL SCHEDULES.

And, if there is law enough in the books to put public utilities behind steel bars—strength to the arm of the new Attorney-General!

Work's the Thing,
Not Charity

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

The Italian Minister of the Interior has just published a report showing that Italy—which is one of the poorest countries in Europe —is among the foremost in the amount of capital invested in charitable institutions.

If the social problem could be solved by sending the whole population to a comfortable almshouse, Italy would be in a fair way to solve it.

The happy day would come in which everybody might sit entranced by a sunny eleemosynary doorway, smoking a frugal, benevolent cigar—and nobody would have to work.

But as things go in this rude world the thing is impossible. And cool economic science is obliged to confess that Italy's heaped up charity is a dismal sign of national decay.

It is a principle that we in America should lay to heart that society advances, not by the multiplication of charities, but by the mobilization of working forces.

Charity is beautiful—when set in contrast to egotism and cruelty. But creative enterprise is still more beautiful.

And the crown of enterprise is Justice.

The strong hands of America are reaching for that crown.

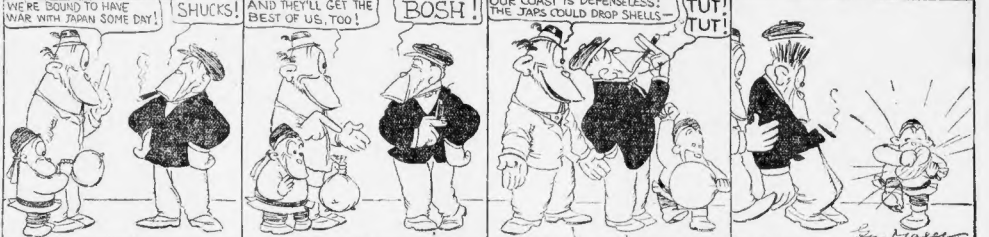

Vacations
By Elbert Hubbard

There are three good reasons why all employees should have vacations. First, it is a matter of common sense. A man who works all the time will get tired and his work will suffer. Second, it is a matter of health. A man who works all the time will get sick and his work will suffer. Third, it is a matter of money. A man who works all the time will get poor and his work will suffer. The only man who can really enjoy his vacation is the man who doesn't need it. And the man who doesn't need it is the man who has a vacation. A vacation is a time when a man can rest and his work will suffer. A vacation is a time when a man can rest and his work will suffer. A vacation is a time when a man can rest and his work will suffer.

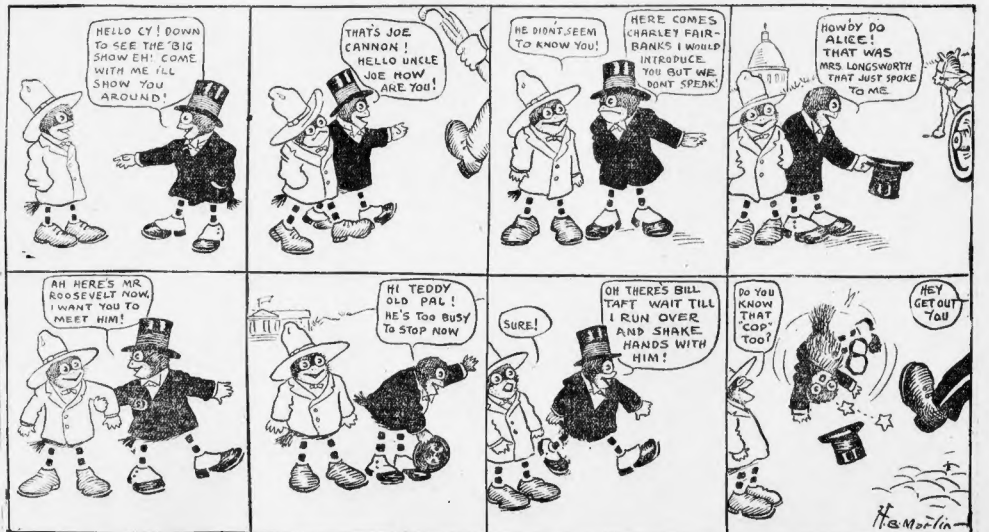

Taft and "My Policies"
By J. J. Dickinson

To a greater extent than any other man since the death of Napoleon Bonaparte, Mr. Roosevelt has divided the intelligent opinion of the world as to his character, his capacity and his motives. Of what his policy in history will be, Mr. Roosevelt himself is dubious. This much I have heard him assert in moments of abstraction. If any more of an Andrew Jackson Democrat than anything political, I once heard him say. Then, the grim expression of countenance betokening the mood that had inspired the burst of confidence—overcome by a wave of sadness, and he added: "But, maybe, instead of my being an Andrew Jackson, I shall wind up by being an Andrew Johnson." The politicians are just beginning to realize that during his occupancy of the White House Mr. Roosevelt has revealed the rules of politics as radically as Napoleon reformed the tactics of war. For this reason, more than for any other, the bulk of them fear and hate him. "That would make a magnificent President," but a miserable candidate. It was in this vein that President Roosevelt spoke his mind for the first time upon his matured determination to turn from his Secretary of State to another as his successor in the White House. The sentence quoted was uttered by the President fifteen years ago almost to the day. Up to that very moment he had been talking of nobody as his successor but Mr. Root. "Then you have another candidate," the President was asked. "What do you think of Will Taft?" he asked. Then he continued: "I offered Taft a place on the Bench when he was graduated from the law in the Phillips, but he refused to give up that work. I told him to go forth with it at that time that he should have the next vacancy occurred in the Supreme Court. If the Chief Justiceship should be vacated I should undoubtedly send Taft's name to the Senate immediately for that place, because in addition his education could be fully gratified. But, as there is no likelihood of Chief Justice Fuller retiring, I have made up my mind to make Taft my successor here. He belongs in this chair to carry on the work I have begun. He is to complete around with every one of my policies, and will develop them as he goes. I would not do except, should I succeed myself, which is entirely out of the domain of the probabilities."
